MacLeish Collection Established By College Faculty And Staff

A collection of Archibald MacLeish writings and memorabilia is being established at Greenfield Community College, President Lewis O. Turner announced today.

A three-time Pulitzer Prize recipient, MacLeish lives in Conway. Greenfield Community College will present his prize-winning verse play, J. B., December 3 through 7 in the Deerfield Academy auditorium. Veteran Broadway and TV actor Pat Hingle, who created the role of J. B. on Broadway, will star in the title role.

In addition to J. B., MacLeish has won Pulitzer Prizes for his poem, Conquistador, and for his Collected Poems (1917-1952). He also wrote the Conway Bicentennial play, "An Evening's Journey to Conway" produced in 1967 in Conway and later broadcast on WGBH-TV.

According to Professor Ellen Ellis, chairman of the MacLeish Committee, "The college is establishing a collection of MacLeish works and memorabilia for two major reasons: to honor a major twentieth century poet who is also an area resident and therefore of especial interest to persons in the community and to make available an easily accessible collection of literary and other materials relating to MacLeish and of interest to area students, scholars and residents."

After graduating from Yale University, MacLeish served as a World I artillery officer. He received his law degree from Harvard in 1919 and practiced law in Boston for three years. During the twenties, he lived in Europe and published several books of poetry.

Returning to this country in the thirties, he worked as a reporter for Fortune and then served in the Roosevelt Administration as Librarian of Congress and advisor to the President. He headed the U.S. Delegation to UNESCO and served as Assistant Secretary of State from 1944 to 1948. In 1949, MacLeish became Boylston Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory at Harvard and continued in that position until his retirement in 1962.

Greenfield Community College hopes to gather the following kinds of material for the MacLeish Collection: his full-length works of prose, poetry and drama; his works published in periodicals; original manuscripts of his works; films, records, tapes and other audio-visual material featuring MacLeish and his works; photographs, portraits and similar materials; major critical studies and bibliographies, letters and other documents and memorabilia.

According to Margaret Howland, director of learning resources at Greenfield Community College and curator of the MacLeish Collection, the college presently owns a number of his books, a published bibliography, an extensive unpublished bibliography with 3,000 to 4,000 card file entries, a photographic portrait by Karsh of Ottawa, a video tape of his discussion with the student cast of the Greenfield Community College production of J. B., an audio tape, and a collection of candid photographs.

Last month the Wiegand Foundation announced a $1,000 gift to the college for the MacLeish Collection. In addition, the Greenfield Community College Foundation, Inc. has made a $500 grant for the MacLeish Collection. These grants have enabled the college to place a large order for periodicals in which articles by and about MacLeish appear and to purchase several books by or about him.

The idea of establishing a MacLeish Collection at Greenfield Community College started with the English faculty. Professor Ellis was given time by the college to travel to Harvard and Yale to develop a bibliography of MacLeish works. It was she who made the initial and successful contact with MacLeish that has resulted in the establishment of the collection. Other members of the MacLeish Committee are: Professors Bernard A. Drabek and Herbert F. Steeper, Mrs. Howland, Dean Jacob B. Padgug, Ms. Sheila Seaman, reference librarian, and Arthur W. Shaw, director of communications.

The collection is housed in a special room in the library of the new campus.

Faculty-Staff Scholarships For Four

Four Greenfield Community College students have recently been awarded scholarships, Margaret A. Campbell, director of financial aid, announced today.

Carol M. Schmidt, 157 Federal Street, has been awarded the Greenfield Women's Club Scholarship of $150. Ms. Schmidt, a 1973 graduate of Greenfield High School, is enrolled in the two-year RN nursing program.

Grais F. Churchill, Depot St., Bernardston, Brenda Metzner, Squire Village, Sunderland, and Ira Mitchell, 462 Leyden Road, Greenfield, have been awarded Greenfield Community College Scholarships in the amount of $300 each. One half of the amount is made available to the students each semester.

These scholarships are made available through the fund raising efforts of the faculty, staff, and their spouses. The major fund-raising event was an antique auction, held last March, under the chairmanship of Prof. Bernard Drabek. The women of the college published a cookbook last year featuring original art work by Prof. Peter Dudley. The proceeds from this venture have also been earmarked for scholarships.

Student Election Results

Greg Gerarde Vice President

By CAROL BEDBOR

The Student Government elections were held on October 29 and 30. The voting was at an all time low; out of 1,440 students, only 176 cast ballots.

The results were as follows: Student Government Vice President: Greg Gerarde

Liberal Arts Representatives:
Don Gerarde
Mike Carruth
Michael Dennison
Kathy Hogan
Kevin Foran
Wendy Rafford
Charlie Bacigalupo
Law Enforcement Representative: Jim Nartowicz.

Business Administration Representatives:

Rosemary Hassey
Rick Farrick
Media Representative: Sadhaka Byrns.

Representatives:
Kathy Benjamin
Cheryl Janes

Recreation Representatives:
Joyce Goodyear
Tom Colligan

Art and Graphic Design Representatives:

Earl McCarthy
Pamela Schweidenback
Civil Engineering Technology Representative: Gary Smith.
Secretarial Science Representatives: Tie between.
Diane Greenman
Lillian Ferraro
Cindy Wandelowski
Environmental Science Representative: Michael Milewski.

Early Childhood Education Representative: Valerie Linstead.

Nursing Representatives and Computer Technology Representatives each had no votes cast.

The low turn out for voting was sad but rather expected. One expects most of the student body to be apathetic. In an effort to familiarize the students with the newly elected government, the Forum asked the representatives to be photographed. Out of twenty representatives, four showed up. This makes G.C.C. unique; not only do we have apathy in the student body, but also in Student Government!

Women's Conference December 7

A special conference for women - Franklin County Women: A Personal Perspective - will be held at Greenfield Community College on Saturday, December 7, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Joan Kamman, coordinator of women's services, announced today.

According to Ms. Kamman, the purpose of the conference is to identify needs among county women for women's services, identify resource persons among county women, explore issues of interest and importance of county women, share ideas, and develop a more effective communications and support system among women of the county.

The conference theme will be developed by five panelists, (Continued On Page 6)

Women's Center Opens At GCC

By REBECCA WINBORN

Recently Ms. M was walking down the hall inbetween doors when she bumped into Ms. S:

Ms. S: "Hey! Did you know there's a Women's Center here at G.C.C.?"

Ms. M: "Ya? When did it open?"

Ms. S: "Well, from what I heard it just got started."

Ms. M: "Where is it?"

Ms. S: "It's in one of those 'invisible' rooms hidden among the bricks and concrete. The Women's Center is in back of the main staircase in room C209 to the left of the A.V. office."

Ms. M: "Is it open all the time?"

Ms. S: "I heard the center will be open and staffed every weekday from 10-3."

Ms. M: "What is a Women's Center anyway?"

Ms. S: "I guess it's a place for women to come to be (Continued On Page 6)

C/NC Options Examined

There are several points concerning the grading system at G.C.C. which have been in question lately. I feel that one point which many students, including myself, are concerned with is the "credit/no credit option".

This option was designed for students who may be unsure of themselves in a course. Therefore, we have been given a chance to take one course each semester which will not affect our Grade Point Average. It is very charitable for our administration to realize that everyone does not feel equally capable in all subjects. That, in fact, many people are very capable in all subjects, but have had consistent problems in one field.

The catch to the credit/no credit option is that you have to achieve a 'C' or above in order to receive credit. That means that a student is unsure of himself in a course; therefore, he elects the credit/no credit option. This student works at the course and ends up with a 72 in the course. The student then receives a grade of NCR.

If the student had not elected the cr/ncr option, he would have received credit. I propose that cr/ncr should be run like a pass/fail system. It is no comfort to a student who is unsure of himself to have to get a 'C' to pass. I think that a student receiving a grade above an 'F' should receive credit.

I hope that our administration will take into consideration the needs of the student and revise the credit/no credit option.

Varsity Sports Questioned

I challenge the student government to let the whole student body decide if intercollegiate sports are needed or wanted. Put it to a vote whether or not the students wish to compete with other schools or even if they wish to have sports altogether. Since the students pay for these activities they should decide how involved they feel the school should be. Could the student body find a better use for the $6,000 plus that is in this year's budget for sports?

Do the 1,400 plus students really want a full athletic program? Do they even want an athletic program at all? So I call upon the student government to find out how the student body feels and then act. But, I suspect that this challenge will go unanswered because the leaders of student government would rather raise the student activities fee to pay for expanded activities. But, before they expand this activities they should find out what is wanted by the body.

To The Editor:

My first impression of GCC was most favorable. The first sighting of this mammoth California architecture was when I came here with a friend, who is a student. I think I was left in a totally dazed state from the maze-like arrangement of the stairs, hallways, and moonlanding modules. I soon adjusted to the arrangement of the building and enrolled here at the last minute.

The few people, several instructors and office personnel, that I first came across were quite nice and helpful, which is a relief when you are in a new environment.

I think that the country side and the adequate facilities are the right stimulus for learning. Along with the interesting teachers. All of which GCC seems to offer.

Also, to my surprise, GCC was only started in 1962, which isn't all that long ago. It appears to have come quite a ways.

Sen. Olver Votes For Aid Bill

By CINDY DOTY

John Olver is a state senator representing the Hampshire-Franklin districts in Boston after having been re-elected to serve another term as such.

When asked what his feelings were on the outcome of the November elections, he had little to say. He stated that it really didn't effect him because at the legislative level in this area only one Republican was replaced by a Democrat. However, on the county level there were several changes but not in Hampshire County.

On the controversial issue of state aid going to private colleges, which was just recently passed, Olver said he had voted for its passage. He feels that the state needs to be as flexible as possible about such policies. His explanation was that he felt there was a need to make available the possibility to aid private schools and their students.

He stated that there are many private colleges in this state and it would be rather expensive to society to have them go out of existence. He feels that instead of just building new colleges and facilities, it is important to keep what it is already existent furnished and functioning. It would be important, therefore, to keep these private colleges from going bankrupt.

Olver stated that he feels sensitive to the idea that it would also be quite costly to the state if private colleges went out of existence because the Commonwealth of Massachusetts would have to provide for those then going into state colleges.

Although in a few years there may be enough money to aid both the private schools and continue support of the state schools, it is needed now. Many private colleges have already closed their doors to their students. Olver pointed out that Smith College and Mount Holyoke are now going down hill. These and others are crying for aid from the public sector. However, if and when the needed money becomes available, it will first go to public secondary schools, state schools, those that are already established, and then into private schools. "When diverting money, it must serve the public."

Olver reported that he was not sure what form this aid to private colleges may take. However, at the present time, Massachusetts is incurring financial difficulties. Presently many more students are enrolling in state-supported colleges, and there are not enough funds to continue to support and build quality education within the public education system as well as to see money being diverted into private education.

Partially, because our economic department is rather poor, Olver believes that it would be a mistake to divert money into the private school systems immediately. But the main idea is that he voted for this bill so that there would be a flexibility available if financial ways were more suitable. It seems, he stated, that we are not robbing our public system in order to do it.

When I explained to him about the funds that GCC is waiting for, he suddenly declared that the concept of college education has changed in trying to develop a complete campus. He feels that the

Student Government Meeting November 13, 1974

A. DISCUSSION:

1. President Mitchel appointed a secretary to the 1974-75 Student Government: MHT Representative Cheryl Janes.

2. President Mitchel suggested the appointment of a chairman for the finance committee of Student Government: one of the two Business Administration Representatives, Rick Farrick or Rosemary Hassey.

a. decision on a chairman was delayed until both representatives eligible for the chairman's position were notified.

b. Brian Gilmore made a statement as to the responsibilities of the treasurer as chairman of the Finance Committee — to regulate budget requests for approval by the Student Government.

c. President Mitchel made a statement on the scope of the Finance Committee to include four members of the Student Government plus the treasurer as chairman; he also made a request for volunteers from the Student Government for the Finance Committee.

d. Volunteers for the Committee include:

1. Tom Colligan
2. Sadhaka Byrns
3. Don Gerarde
4. Gary Smith

3. President Mitchel made the suggestion that Government members volunteer to take part in other school committees.

4. President Mitchel read RSO applications submitted for consideration by the Government.

a. Applications for a GCC Women's Center, Mandala, College Co-op and Foreign Students Club were read by the President.

b. The President suggested the Government give the above mentioned clubs a chance unless it became necessary to limit their existence.

c. Question as made regarding funding for these clubs — answered by President Mitchel.

d. Question was made regarding the guidelines for starting clubs at the College — answered by President Mitchel.

5. President Mitchel made a suggestion for the resolution of the tie for Secretarial Science Representatives that if the individuals involved were that interested, they should all be allowed to stay.

a. Question was made as to how many individuals major in secretarial science. Brian Gilmore responded: 85-2 representatives for every 50 students.

6. President Mitchel set the next meeting at 5:30 p.m. each Wednesday after some members said the 5:00 p.m. time was interfering with a class. Mr. Gilmore suggested that the Finance Committee meet from 5:00-5:30 p.m. each Wednesday.

7. President Mitchel postponed discussion on the motion No. 5 on the agenda for November 13, 1974 until the Finance Committee had a chance to meet.

8. With topics on the agenda covered, President Mitchel turned the discussion to future plans for consideration by the Government.

a. Getting Government members involved with the various committees available as well as a presentation of the structural organization of the Forum by Dean Gainty. Question was made regarding the inadequacies of the Forum. Answer was given by President Mitchel, stating the irrelevance of material, as well as the need for a decision regarding control of the paper.

b. President Mitchel stated the need for a Government decision regarding the future of the present grading system. Dean Gainty and Mr. Johnson offered background as to how the present grading system came into existence. Question was made regarding the influence of a C/NC grading system on transfer students. Dean Gainty stated that there may well be a correlation. Brian Gilmore and Mr. Johnson reiterated the need for immediate action.

c. President Mitchel cited reasons for a motion to make complete medical insurance coverage mandatory for each student.

d. Brian Gilmore stated the need for a Government decision on raising the Student Activities fee to $20 per semester with the assurance for each student that courses registered for would be available.

e. President Mitchel cited the need for input to the Commencement Committee.

B. MOTIONS

1. "To approve the clubs whose applications were read by President Mitchel, for GCC Women's Center, Mandala, College Co-op and Foreign Student Clubs," passed with no opposition.

2. "To allow all three candidates for Secretarial Science representative a place in the Government for 1974-75", passed with no opposition.

3. "To require the Student Government to meet each Wednesday at 5:30 p.m.", passed with no opposition.

C. ANNOUNCEMENTS

1. Members of Government invited to J. B. cast party.

2. To Consider action on a grievances committee.

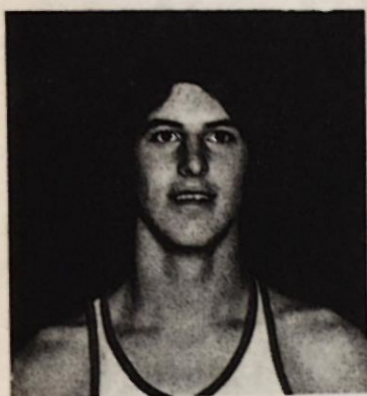

3. To introduce each Government member.

4. To take attendance seriously for each member.

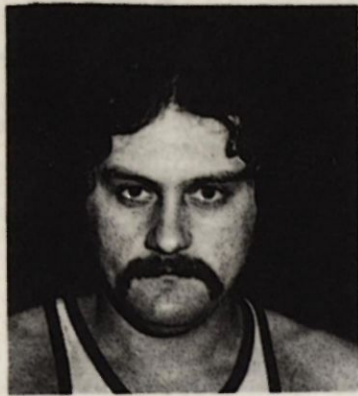

Respectfully submitted,
Cheryl Janes, Secretary
Student Government 1974-75.

Short Soccer Season Exciting

By GREG GERADE

With the coming of winter, the soccer season has come to an early end, with only three games played.

The late opening of G.C.C. prevented a regular soccer schedule, but this did not stop enthusiastic students to participate in club soccer.

The program was coached by Mike Carruth who has played varsity soccer for G.C.C. for the past two years. The first day of practice had an excellent turn-out of twelve to fifteen players, all eager for some exercise and competition.

Some of these restless athletes never played soccer before, but were willing to learn. The other players who have played helped these would-be stars learn the rules. Such players as Kevin Tolin who was a stand-out goalie at Greenfield High, and Matthew McKew helped Gary Bock and Mike Carruth organize a team.

The new athletic field was used as the playing field with the school furnishing soccer balls, nets, and money for officials.

After three weeks of practice, a scrimmage was set with Greenfield High at G.H.S. It took some time for everyone to adjust to their competition, but after fifteen minutes G.C.C. drew first blood on a short kick by Gary Bock from Matt McKew, then minutes later, McKew scored the second goal from Gary Smith.

The second half was all G.C.C. as the defense held Greenfield High to only a handful of shots on goal.

The final score was G.C.C.-4 and G.H.S.-0, with Gary Bock and Matt McKew scoring the last two goals.

The next game was held in Marlboro, Vermont at Marlboro College, a small unknown campus, but very interested in soccer.

The first few minutes were spent getting used to their new and physical team. Passing and defense dominated the first moments of play, then Matt McKew took a short pass from the corner and rammed it home for a quick G.C.C. lead.

Ten minutes later, a head shot by a Marlboro forward tied the game at one apiece.

As the first half ended, a short tough angle boot by a Marlboro right-winger put them ahead 2-1. Going into the second half G.C.C. had some very good chances but could not score. Then a quick head shot by the Marlboro forward just excluded the G.C.C. goalie to put the game out of reach for the Red Barons. The final score was Marlboro-3, G.C.C.-1.

The final game of the season was played on November 15 at G.C.C. with Marlboro College for the second time.

The first college competitive sport ever played at the new campus was played on our athletic field.

These two teams played before so they knew what to expect from each other.

Throughout the entire game, the defense told the story. Dick Benjamin and Geoff Hibert for G.C.C. held Marlboro at a standstill, but they got lucky and scored a fluke goal for a one to nothing lead, and then quickly scored again to go ahead 2-0.

Things looked gloomy for G.C.C., but then a goal by Elliot Levy late in the game saved G.C.C. from being shut out.

A good all-around effort by all the players made it one of the better played soccer games at G.C.C.

Deer Season Opens Soon

CHARLIE BACIGALUPO

With the coming deer season many hunters will be taking to their favorite "deer stands" in wooded areas in hope that luck will pass their way.

Deer season for Massachusetts hunters begins on the first Monday of December. People interested should have some knowledge of the Massachusetts laws regarding taking of wildlife and if possible what to do with it since selling and buying of wildlife is prohibited and laws are quite stiff.

You have to go to the town hall in Greenfield to buy your hunting license. The fee is $8.25 which seems quite expensive. But in reality, it's not a hell of a lot, considering if you bag a deer-buck or doe that weighs in the vicinity of 125-130 lbs., there is a lot of meat on them. In regard to the taking of a doe (female deer), a special permit is issued from Boston who regulates the taking of does.

The application for this expired for this year on Nov. 1st, all this is explained in the pamphlet you receive when you buy your license.

All college students who attend GCC whose permanent address is from an other state, can buy a resident's license with proof of address or student ID.

All hunters must wear at least 200 sq. ft. of florescent orange. This is to protect you and other hunters from being shot. Liquor should not be taken before you enter the woods. It will be there when you return.

No rifles, pistols, or automatic weapons are to be used during the deer week seasons. If your not familiar with the area and would like to hunt, Contact me and I'll show you some of the best areas around.

I'm located at 8 Juniper Ct., Leyden Woods.

DON WHEELER — Forumfoto by Mike Young.

A Candid Interview With Don Wheeler

By CHARLIE BACIGALUPO

A candid interview with GCC's first director of physical education, Donald Wheeler.

Mr. Wheeler expressed deep concern about the fields over which there is speculation to either purchase or lease additional land. But as for their location, Wheeler hasn't the faintest idea.

If the college does appropriate land, one of the first things we will build here are general purpose athletic fields and there are some specific things like a baseball diamond. In the field you need a diamond. We need a general athletic field where you can play soccer one day, lacrosse the next day, and field hockey for the women or whatever they want. I don't think that GCC has any track at all. But if it can have students interested in track there, I imagine there would be one set up as long as other area colleges have track and field such as cross country, etc. etc.

On the intramural activities: We could have a Saturday or two Saturdays with the freshmen against the sophomores or whatever, or an entire field meet in which Brian Gilmore, Activities Club, could support an outing.

What Mr. Wheeler was trying to put across is that he's there to help students with sports activities problems and trying to help out the college also. I believe that we (the students and the faculty) should help Mr. Wheeler in any way possible. So let us.

Mr. Wheeler has great ideas and with the help of both the students and faculty, we could have his ideas come true, and we would all benefit from it.

ME: Since you have been here for a day or so and have had a chance to look around, what's your personal opinion of the GCC campus?

WHEELER: The college building looks just great. I come from a college with temporary facilities only — so this looks tremendous.

ME: What is the principle duty of a Director of Physical Education?

WHEELER: I have two titles. One is "Director of Leisure Education." That job entails drawing up a program of study — determining faculty and staff that are necessary for functioning them. The second is working as a planning agent for the newly proposed gymnasium field house. This director of athletics job entails working intercollegiate athletic programs here at the college.

ME: I've been told that you were going to set up a fitness program that the student would receive credits for. How true is this?

WHEELER: Well — it's a long way in the future — if it is true at all. One of my jobs from Doctor Peley's office with instructions is to investigate whether we should have physical education as a part of a credit offering here at this college. If so, how many credits would be offered? Who would be allowed to take it? Would it be required in some form or degree? Or? the entire program is at a question mark.

ME: What could you offer other than fitness to interest students?

WHEELER: Well, the idea, the name of the title is leisure education, so hopefully it would be the things that you do now in your leisure time. So, if you're a skier, hopefully I could find someone who is in the local area, that is a qualified ski instructor and offer you a chance to get some instruction in skiing to become a little bit safer at it, a little bit better at it — with the thought that 15 years from now you and your family would choose that as a form of recreation.

ME: Does GCC have the funds to start a program, say, for gymnastics and other types of sports that are not at GCC now?

WHEELER: Are you speaking of an intercollegiate sports program?

ME: Yes.

WHEELER: The job of the athletic teams or the philosophy behind them is to offer an opportunity for the gifted student to do something like that to participate against other gifted students. Now, if we had a large volume of students that were gymnastically oriented by large gymnastic programs in high school, and these students formed a club; perhaps even an intramural league or

Barons Top Vermont In Opener

The Red Barons finally picked off Vermont Technical Community College in the second half of the hoop opener Tuesday night after a close skirmish in the first half.

At the half the score was 34 to 32 — the Barons leading; the game final 76 to 67.

Vermont played a shaky first half but in the second go-around they were able to control their tempo of play. For the Barons it was a team effort. All members of the squad got on the floor; three fouled out.

Top Baron scorer for the evening was Scott Rome with 25 points. He was followed by Jeff Jobst with 19, Jack Burke, 15, and Joek Hilliker with ten for the top four. Vermont's Wayne Le-Tourneau scored 22 points and Carl Bickford, Don Campbell and Kelly Burbank had 14 each.

Eye of newt, and toe of frog,

Wool of bat, and tongue of dog."

What is being served at the cafeteria today! The question on the lips of all the students at Greenfield Community College. We at G.C.C. have a cafeteria this year which has many new and tasty treats for us.

The cafeteria is ably run by the Food Service Manager Mr. Thomas Lawson. Mr. Lawson is a graduate of Culinary Institute of America which is located in New Haven, Conn. He works for Saga Food Service, which is a nation wide chain.

Mr. Lawson is trying to have a monthly special such as the one which is in progress now with the "Super Whizme" frisky. In March he plans a special with kites.

When Sage Food appointed Mr. Lawson he surveyed the downtown cafeterias to find out what they charged. He has tried to keep his prices here at G.C.C. lower, so as to help out the student out. On a standard product such as an egg, downtown the cost is about 40 cents a piece while at G.C.C. it is 25 cents. Mr. Lawson stated that they were able to keep prices lower because overhead costs, such as heat and rent of facilities are eliminated.

Some of the facility, staff, and students were asked what they thought of the food.

Will Roberts said, "Good soup."

Brian Gilmore said, "The foods okay, but I wish they would use onion rolls for the sandwiches."

Kathy Gleason said, "It's alright."

Denise May said, "Their salads are beautiful, and the rest of the food is okay."

So all in all most of the students, staff, and faculty like the food in the G.C.C. cafeteria.

Barons Flag Football Wins Contest Trophy

By GREG GERARDE

HANOVER, N.H. — Greenfield mixed a potent ground and air attack to roll up a 33-0 score over the Hanover co-flag football champs.

In this first game G.C.C.'s defense kept Hanover in their half of the field. Mike Currie and Ray Zukowski pressured the Hanover offense all afternoon, knocking down passes and stopping the ground game.

G.C.C. quarterback Bob Mulcahy and halfbacks Mike Currie and Jackie Burke ran the Red Barons' offense to perfection as they scored on passes, runs and sweeps.

G.C.C. stormed to an 18-0 half-time lead on a touchdown pass from Mulcahy to Currie and a run by quarterback Mulcahy, then Jackie Burke ran a sweep for six more to end the first half.

With minutes gone in the second half, Hanover could not move the ball and turned it over to G.C.C. on their own forty-yard line. The Barons capitalized on a leaky Hanover pass defense to run their score to 33-0 as Currie, Mulcahy and Burke ran the offense and Don Gerarde, Ray Zukowski and Jim Nartowicz kept the Hanover defense at bay, giving Mulcahy time to pass. G.C.C.'s last score covered 55 yards on six plays for the final score in the late minutes of the fourth quarter. The 33 points G.C.C. scored were the most points scored by any team in the tournament.

After an hour of rest and orange juice, the Red Barons were ready for the Hanover Champs. As the two teams took the field, G.C.C. was clearly the underdog as Hanover was physically bigger and more organized from playing together since August.

The opening kick-off found G.C.C. deep in their own end, and, after a few short sweeps, the Barons were forced to punt and that gave the Hanover team good field position. After a few passes Hanover scored their first six points, but the extra point fell short.

In the second period Mulcahy engineered a fifty-five yard drive and capped it off by passing to Ron Lieberwith, who streaked to the far corner to haul in the pass. With the score tied at 6-6, G.C.C. failed on the extra point. Late in the second quarter and G.C.C. threatening to score, a quick pitch-out to Mike Currie gave the Barons an unexpected 13-6 lead as the extra point failed and the period ended.

After a short intermission, both teams took the field for the final twenty minutes. Much of the third period was spent on defense as Ray Zukowski, Mike Currie and Jackie Burke kept the Hanover team from scoring.

In the opening minutes of the fourth quarter, G.C.C. had poor position but managed a first down to their own thirty-five yard line, but were forced to punt when a third-and-ten failed.

Then with five minutes left, Hanover put a forty-five yard scoring drive together to tie the game at 12-12, with the Hanover quarterback running the final five yards on a draw play.

With three minutes remaining in the contest, the Barons had their backs to the wall with the ball on their three-yard line when a bad snap caused a safety to give Hanover the lead and the game.

G.C.C. was awarded the runner-up trophy as well as being the team that scored the most points in two games (forty-five).

Everyone on the squad played excellent football and conducted themselves like true sportsmen. Rich Chasson, Tom Calligan, Bob Mulcahy, Ray Zukowski, Jim Nartowicz, Elliot Levy, Don Gerarde, Ron Lieberwith, Mike Currie, Jackie Burke, Rick Guthrie and Jim Semaski were all part of the team that gave G.C.C. its first football trophy.

The flag football team was coached by second-year student Gregory Gerarde.

FLOSSIE BARTLETT, A GCC alumna, receives a certificate for completing the social gerontology course offered by the Division of Community Service. President Turner looks on. —Forumfoto by Mike Young.

Certificates Awarded Nine In Social Gerontology Course

Nine persons received certificates recently for successfully completing a seminar in social gerontology at Greenfield Community College, according to Professor Ethel M. Case, director of community services.

The gerontology seminar was made possible through Title III of the Older Americans Act, the Massachusetts Department of Elder Affairs, and the Boston University Social Gerontology Project. Professor Gretchen Batra, field supervisor of the BU project, was the instructor.

According to Professor Batra, the purpose of the seminar was to train people to work more effectively with the elderly, to train people how to consult with agencies about working with the elderly, and to combine these skills into a field experience in which an actual training program would be established, expedited, and evaluated. The seminar, which began September 24, concluded today.

Two of the participants will be establishing in-service training projects for homemaker-home health aid agencies; another will be training church women to train laypersons to work effectively with the elderly; several will be developing in-service training programs for nursing homes.

In addition to their study of social gerontology, participants explored their own attitudes towards the elderly and common stereo-types and myths associated with aging.

Those who received certificates today were: Florence Bartlett, Council on Aging; Cynthia M. Burnham, Franklin Nursing Home; Erma Ferrin, First Baptist Church; Barbara Griffith, Senior Center, Amherst; Serena Kaiser, Franklin County Health Care; Adrienne Lane, Poet's Seat Nursing Home; Shirley Letourneau, Cozy Corner Nursing Home; Nadine Taylor, Franklin County Home Health Care; and Laura Thayer, Hillside Nursing Home, South Deerfield.

together, to share our lives: problems, joys, frustrations, ideas, you know. There's going to be literature and books by and about women. It can be a place where projects can be organized and information can be gathered and shared. It seems like there are a lot of things the Women's Center can be. It depends on what the needs and desires are of the women who are interested in using it. But I think most of all it is a place where women can come and feel comfortable to be themselves and to get to know ourselves better."

Ms. M: "Hmmm. I never thought about getting to know myself more. Seems like it's so easy for us, as women to forget about ourselves. I think I'll drop by that Women's Center sometime real soon."

Ms. S: "Great! Why don't we try to find it together. It'll be easier together. Hey!!!! Maybe that's what the Women's Center is all about. Oh I just remembered there's going to be an Open House for everyone here at G.C.C. to celebrate her beginning. It's on Friday, December 6th from 2-4 at the new Women's Center. Let's invite all our friends and we can go together."

Ms. M: "I'm so glad I ran into you. I wouldn't have found out about the Women's Center if you hadn't of told me. I'm going to pass the news on. I believe we can make it into what we want and need it to be."

The above conversation never happened. At least I didn't hear it. But all the facts and information are true and real. The Women's Center is happening. Come and drop by and help make it into something YOU want it to be.

college should have been more in the center of the population that attends it. He thinks that it seems that there is no longer an attempt to incorporate the use of public grounds and activities, but there is a strong attempt to set up a college's, such as GCC's, own facilities, which he does not look upon favorably.

each of whom will share their personal perspective:

Florence C. Bartlett of Old Deerfield worked as a commercial artist until her marriage in 1930 to the Rev. Henry M. Bartlett. After her children had grown up and left home, Mrs. Bartlett entered Greenfield Community College's mental health technology program. She transferred to the liberal arts program in her second year and upon graduation entered the University of Massachusetts. She received her bachelor's degree in 1973 and began work as an outreach worker among the elderly in Greenfield — a position which she still holds. Mrs. Bartlett recently completed a special seminar in social gerontology at Greenfield Community College.

Leona K. Cloutier of Orange is a retired U.S. Naval officer. She is a graduate of Orange High School and the University of Buffalo and in the Navy held assignments in personnel and administration. She has also been a professional placement officer and consultant with Virginia Employment Services and has held positions with the Massachusetts Department of Public Welfare and the Department of Correction.

Her career in private industry includes assignments with Dennison Manufacturing Company, the Philco Corporation and Erving Paper Mills. She has also taught in a private school.

Lt. Commander Cloutier is a member of Orange Post 172 of the American Legion, St. Mary's Parish Council and Women's Club and the Orange Elementary School Committee.

Pat Sackrey of Northampton started college at the age of 27. She had children aged three, six, and nine at the time. After receiving her degree, she became director of continuing education for women and director of Every Woman's Center at the University of Massachusetts. She has recently become the community representative for the Franklin-Hampshire Control for Children.

Dawn Peters of Heath went back to school after being divorced. Her work experience includes jobs as a waitress, canteen truck driver, phone repair person, dispatch operator, production control clerk, machine operator, and legal services advocate. She is a member of the board of directors of Western Massachusetts Legal Services and is about to become manager of her own gas station. She is 37 years old and has four children.

Juliette Seaver of Heath is one of the founders of the Community Women's Center. She spent half her life in Europe traveling with her parents who are in theater. For the past four years she has been living with her husband and two children trying to turn back the clock and live as simply and self-sufficiently as possible. Her activities include silk screening, writing, and yoga.

Transportation from Court Square, Greenfield to the new campus where the conference will be held will be available as will child care services. Women wanting to take advantage of these services are requested to register in advance by calling Ms. Kamman at the college — 774-3131, extension 321.

Those attending the conference are asked to bring bag lunches. Coffee and tea will be provided. There will be no charge for the conference.

something, and these students formed a club; perhaps even an intramural league or something, and then demonstrated a need for this program — then we would find the facilities, the coaching and the equipment to set one up.

ME: Do you think we have spectator transportation?

WHEELER: I have no idea. If they do have it, it's completely out of my control. If they don't have it and someone wants it, I couldn't start it anyway.

ME: Wouldn't that come under the student activities fund?

WHEELER: Perhaps, but it sure doesn't come under the Director of Athletics. (office — phone buzzes — wrong number)

ME: Do you intend on any lacrosse or other activities that would be women-oriented, since 80 per cent of all sports activities at GCC are for males? Now, recently I talked to some of the college girls and a lot of them seem interested in lacrosse and other activities that would involve women. The school doesn't sponsor it.

WHEELER: Right now, the only schedule I'm familiar with is basketball, men's and women's, and beyond that I'd just be speculating. I would say that if we started women's lacrosse and we could play on an intramural level and get some people who were genuinely interested and we could prove that for a year, then I think that would be the evidence. I would need to go to the student accusation and say I have this many people there going to put in this much time. They deserve to be funded. I don't see — I have not been lead to believe that if I can demonstrate that there is interest, there are people that the student accusation will hold back. I think they would find it if enough people are interested.

ME: Then what you're saying is that there are enough funds for special sports.

WHEELER: No, I'm saying that because I honestly don't know the status of the funds. But I have been lead to believe that there is a general attitude here of feeling on the part of the students accusation, which I understand is on the order of 20 students that control the student activity fees and use them; and that they have a feeling for activities, all the activities and that they have been very reasonable in the past. If some one says that there are enough students interested in ballet, there is something done. I certainly expect the same in terms of athletics.

ME: What are your specifications for the field house? Where is it going to be built and how much funding is it going to take?

WHEELER: I have been directed to go to a meeting next week where I'll be given the background for information.

ME: Will you be planning cooperative planning with the recreation department?

WHEELER: Of necessity, we'll choose to work together. We both have the same aims. I know Tom Foster and I don't expect any problems. The two of us will work together to see where we can work together our two programs to give the students the best.

ME: Are you planning any specific time when students could informally discuss the sports program or is your door always open?

WHEELER: The door's always open. I have been told that the paper would be bi-weekly, but if not, I will have to get out a sports newsletter weekly to inform the students of sports activity. Right now I'm just getting things squared away a little. If I get to the point where I'm not around, I'll post a time on the bulletin board where I'll be. Right now, anybody with thoughts, I would really like to meet them and I would like them to come in and see me.

ME: Are you going to be coaching the sports activities?

WHEELER: I'm going to. I really believe that intercollegiate athletics is a

Baronesses Against Quinsigamond December 4

The Red Baronesses of Greenfield Community College will open their basketball season against Quinsigamond Community College in a home game on December 4 at 6:00 p.m. at Greenfield High School.

Members of the team are: Christina Heaton, guard; Cheryl Boron, center and forward; Karen Plunkett, forward; Joanne Vassallo, guard; Karen Riddle, guard;

Sue Supinski, guard and forward; Linda Jalbert, forward; Cathy Clark, forward; and Laurie How, guard.

The Baronesses will be sparked this year by a new women's basketball coach, Donna M. Hall. Coach Hall is a 1972 graduate of Greenfield Community College in liberal arts and last June received a degree in physical education from the University of Massachusetts. For three years she has directed the Greenfield area's summer recreational women's softball league and is directing the Greenfield recreational basketball league for girls as well as coaching the Baronesses.

The ladies' schedule is: December 4, Quinsigamond at home; December 7, Holyoke, at home; December 9, Keene State at home; December 14, Mt. Wachusett away; December 16, Hampshire College away; December 18, Berkshire away; February 3, North Adams State away;

February 5, Quinsigamond away; February 8, Holyoke away; Feb. 15, Mt. Wachusett at home; February 19, Berkshire at home; February 21, Hampshire College at home. Home games begin at 6:00 p.m.

Notice To All Students

EARLY REGISTRATION

Change In Procedure

Read and save this notice. Early Registration will be conducted according to the following plan:

1. Students enrolled in career programs register December 4 through 11.
2. Students enrolled in liberal arts and those with special student status register December 12 through 18.
3. An appointment with your faculty advisor is required.
Make this appointment through the division secretary.
4. During your advisement appointment, you and your advisor should build a schedule according to degree and curriculum requirements, prerequisites and course availability.
5. Courses are to be plotted on a schedule sheet to eliminate possible conflicts.
6. The advisor will fill out the registration form and sign it. It will not be accepted without the advisor's signature.
7. Once the registration form is signed, it should be brought immediately to the Registrar in Student Personnel. The Registrar will validate registration according to course availability.
8. If the course is not available, the student will be sent back to the advisor for alternative choices.

Halloween Dance Success

By GARY BRAFF

The Halloween Dance was a smashing success. At least those who were sober enough to walk out enjoyed it. Clean Living provided the music and added momentum to the festivities.

Witches were few but bewitching. Vampires and vampiresses were seen haning around together. Assorted monsters, ghouls, and grotesque beings roamed through the crowd looking for choice victims of various shtick, perfected just for the gathering.

The Purple Pumpernickel showed up to quaf a few with the fair damsels who adorned the walls for most of the night. The butterfly, bumblebee, bunnys, and angels were on hand and I don't think the devil made them do it.

One stand out was seven foot Frankenstein. He seemed to have what looked like all his relatives there. salt and Pepper were there to shake things up, as were the 1950 Rats and Ratfink Motorcycle gang, spiffed up with chains, sunglasses, thirsts, et al.

Bottles glasses clinked, and spirits were high in general.
